Transport in the city

The WBSTC (West Bengal Surface Transport Corporation) and CSTC operate regular buses throughout the city which are very cheap. Privately owned deluxe buses are also available for tourism and intercity commute. A metro line run through the city connecting the north to the south. Constructions are undergoing for extending the existing service and also connect the eastern and western areas of the city. The Calcutta Tramways corporation run electric trams in various places and have become a symbol of the city. Yellow as well white ambassadors can be found in the city for travelling, which usually go by the meter. Ferry services are also available between several ghats in the city. In addition, app cab services can also be used in the city.
